

I am the President of onShore, Inc., a Chicago IT consulting firm of 13 years.
It's

become clear to me by examples of the Internet and 802.11b that opening up spectrum for unhindered public use breeds unimagined innovation and is the best possible way to promote commerce. I encourage the FCC to open, without special license or certification, both high power and low power, the use of the 3650-3700Mhz band.
